

Future Directions for Heterodox Economics

John T. Harvey and Robert F. Garnett, Editors

A major task for 21st century economists is to understand and improve a post-Cold War world in which no single economic system or theory holds “the key” to human betterment. Many of the resources to meet this challenge lie within the theoretical traditions known collectively as heterodox economics. Future Directions in Heterodox Economics shows the range of heterodox contributions economic theory and policy in the wake of the recent pluralist turn among non-mainstream economists. Unlike any previous collection, this volume reveals the surprising extent to which pluralism is reshaping the goals, methods, and future directions of heterodox economics.

Advances in Heterodox Economics Series

Series Editors

Frederic S. Lee, University of Missouri-Kansas City
Robert F. Garnett, Texas Christian University

The Advances in Heterodox Economics series promotes the development of heterodox economics beyond the existing paradigms of Austrian, Feminist, Institutional-Evolutionary, Marxian, Post Keynesian, Radical, Social, and Sraffian economics.

Forthcoming Titles in the Series

I Do Solemnly Swear

On the Need for and Content of Professional Economics Ethics
George DeMartino

Environmental Economics

A Heterodox Approach
Robin Hahnel and Kristen Sheeran, eds.

Tony Lawson and His Critics

Edward Fullbrook, ed.

Class and Convention

A Critique of the Political Economy of Workers' Rights
Ric McIntyre

Informal Work in Developed Nations

Enrico Marcelli and Colin Williams, eds.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword, Frederic S. Lee
Foreword, Anne Mayhew
Preface, John T. Harvey
Introduction, “Pluralism and the Future of Heterodox Economics,”
Robert F. Garnett, Jr.

Foundations: Economic Knowledge, Measurement, and Ethics

Chapter 1, “A Future for Schools of Thought and Pluralism in Heterodox Economics,” Sheila C. Dow

Chapter 2, “From Outer Circle to Center Stage: The Maturation of Heterodox Economics,” Neva Goodwin

Chapter 3, “Heterodox Economics, the Fragmentation of the Mainstream, and Embedded Individual Analysis,” John B. Davis

Chapter 4, “To Be or Not to Be? The Ontic and the Ontological in Economic Enquiry,” Judith Mehta

Chapter 5, “Heterodox Economics and the Resurrection of Economic Significance,” Stephen T. Ziliak

Chapter 6, “A Hippocratic Oath for Economists? On the Need for and Content of a Professional Economic Ethics,” George DeMartino

Criss-Crossing Paradigms

Chapter 7, “Quantity and Price Systems: Towards a Framework for Coherence between Post Keynesian and Sraffian Economics,” Andrew B. Trigg

Chapter 8, “Defining Social Sustainability: The Political Economy of Social Reproduction,” Mary King

Chapter 9, “Institutional Economics, Post Keynesian Economics, and System Dynamics: Three Strands of a Heterodox Braid,” Michael J. Radzicki

Chapter 10, “Invention, Innovation, Investment: Heterodox Simulation Modeling of Capital Accumulation,” Jerry Courvisanos and Colin Richardson

New Political Economies

Chapter 11, “Catalaxy, Competition, and 21st Century Capitalism: An Agenda for Economics,” Steven Horwitz

Chapter 12, “The Lamentable Absence of Power in Mainstream Economic Theory,” M. Neil Browne and J. Kevin Quinn

Chapter 13, “Socialism, Community, and Democracy: A Postmodern Marxian Perspective,” Antonio Callari and David F. Ruccio